Bright Futures People Helping People

Bright Futures is a Weld County, Colorado workforce initiative designed to strengthen the vitality of the Weld County community. By nurturing and supporting the next generation with tuition assistance in the form of money for post-secondary education or training certification, we are building a strong foundation for a stable economy.

History

Understanding the importance of trade and academic skills, the Weld County Board of Commissioners launched Bright Futures in 2015. The goal is to financially assist students who pursue post-secondary education or training and certification programs within the Bright Futures geographic region.

The program is open to qualifying Weld County residents who have graduated from high school, earned a GED, or were honorably discharged from the U.S. armed forces. Accepted recipients may receive financial assistance of up to $14,000 over the course of eight semesters.

Bright Futures is excited to share a way for supporters to pay no Weld County property tax!

Here's how:

- 1.) Donate to Bright Futures in any amount to give Weld County students free money for college or career training.
- 2.) Receive half your donation back in the form of a tax credit up to the amount owed on the Weld County portion of your property taxes.
- 3.) Donate twice of what you owe for your Weld County property tax and receive a credit for all of it! That means you'll pay no county portion of your property tax!

Bright Futures is administered by Weld Legacy Foundation and qualifies as a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. You may be able to deduct your donation to Bright Futures if you itemize deductions on your tax returns, too! (Consult your tax advisor to determine the deductibility of your donation.)

SEE HOW THE TAX CREDIT WORKS

If you were to donate $100 to Bright Futures, for example, and the Weld County portion of your property tax is $50 or more, you would receive a $50 credit toward the Weld County portion of your property tax. If the Weld County portion of your property tax is $50, you would pay no Weld County property tax!

If you itemize deductions on your tax returns, you may also be able to deduct your donation from your federal and state taxes, too. (Consult your tax advisor to determine the deductibility of your donation.) That means for your $100 gift to Bright Futures, you end up paying a lot less!
